

"All Depends on the Point of View" Illustration, September 1914

Frame 1: Customer at a butcher shop: "I hope they get licked! War is just what we needed — it's a great chance for this country to gain commercial supremacy, etc—"

Frame 2: Same customer at a butcher shop: "It will be a fine thing for our merchant marine — United States will regain her place as master of the sea — I'm telling you, Fritz"

Frame 3: Fritz (Butcher): "On account of the war we've raised meat umpty cents per pound—"
Same customer: "War is H---! It ought to be stopped — it's a crime against civilization—"

Handwritten below illustration: All Depends on the Point of View