

A. (May 19, 1862)

By the President of the United States of America,
A Proclamation.

Whereas there appears in the public prints, what purports to be a proclamation, of Major General Hunter, in the words and figures following, to-wit:

Headquarters Department of the South, }
Hilton Head, S. C., May 9, 1862. }
General Orders No. 11.—The three States of Georgia, Florida and South Carolina, comprising the military department of the south, having deliberately declared themselves no longer under the protection of the United States of America, and having taken up arms against the said United States, it becomes a military necessity to declare them under martial law. This was accordingly done on the 25th day of April, 1862. Slavery and martial law in a free country are altogether incompatible; the persons in these three States—Georgia, Florida and South Carolina—heretofore held as slaves, are therefore declared forever free.
(Official) DAVID HUNTER,
Major General Commanding.
ED. W. SMITH, Acting Assistant General.

And whereas the same is producing some excitement, and misunderstanding; Therefore

I, Abraham Lincoln, president of the United States, proclaim and declare, that the government of the United States, has no knowledge, information, or belief, of an intention on the part of General Hunter to issue such a proclamation; nor has it yet, any authentic information that the document is genuine. And further, that neither General Hunter, nor any other commander, or person, has been ~~expressly~~, or ~~implicitly~~ authorized by the Government of the United States, to make proclamations declaring the slaves of any State free; and that the supposed proclamation, now in question, ~~whether~~ whether genuine or false, is altogether void, so far as respects such declaration.

2

I further make known that whether it be competent for me, as Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, to declare the slaves of any State or States free, and whether at any time, in any case, it shall have become a necessity indispensable to the maintenance of the government, to exercise such supposed power, are questions which, under my responsibility, I reserve to myself, and which I can not feel justified in leaving to the decision of ~~any person to be decided for me by either~~
Commanders in the field. These are totally different ques~~ions, not all of my military subordi-~~ nates from those of political regulations in armies and camps.

On the sixth day of March last, by a special message, I recommended to Congress the adoption of a joint resolution to be substantially as follows:

Resolved, That the United States ought to cooperate with any State which may adopt a gradual abolishment of slavery, giving to such State pecuniary aid, to be used by such State in its discretion to compensate for the inconveniences, public and private, produced by such change of system.

3

The resolution, in the language above quoted, was adopted by large majorities in both branches of Congress, and now stands an authentic, definite, and solemn proposal of the nation to the states and people most immediately interested in the subject matter. To the people of those states I now earnestly appeal. I do not argue. I beseech you to make the arguments for

You can not if you would, be blind to the signs of the times. I beg of you a calm and enlarged consideration of them, ranging, if it may be, far above personal and party politics.

proposals makes common cause for a common object, casting no reproaches upon any. It ^{acts} ~~plays~~ not the pharisee. The change it contemplates would come gently as the dew of heaven, not sending or wrecking anything.

Will you not embrace it? So much good has not been done, by one effort, in all past time, as, in the providence of God, it is now your high privilege to do. May the next future

16048-A

16048

The resolution, in the language above quoted, was adopted by large majorities in both branches of Congress, and now stands an authentic, definite, and solemn proposal of the nation to the states and people most immediately interested in the subject matter. To the people of those states I now earnestly appeal. I do not argue. I beseech you to make the arguments for yourselves. ~~The strong tendency to a total disruption of society in the South, is apparent. You can stay or, without your own, possibly I can not. You can stay or without harming a hair of white or black.~~ This proposal makes common cause for a common object, casting no reproaches upon any. It ^{acts} ~~plays~~ not the pharisee. The change it contemplates would come gently as the dews of heaven, not rending or wrecking anything. Will you not embrace it? So much good has not been done, by one effort, in all past time, or, in the providence of God, it is now your high privilege to do. May the next future not have to lament that you have neglected it.⁺

[~~Abraham Lincoln~~]

~~May 19, 1862.~~

⁺ In witness whereof, I have herunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

(S.S.)

Done at the City of Washington this nineteenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, and of the Independence of the United States the eighty-sixth Abraham Lincoln.

By the President:

William H. Seward,
Secretary of State